

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

Based on the analysis about Christian Grey's past traumatic experience above, the writer finds that the trauma experience gives effects to Christian Grey. The writer finds that the trauma gives two kind of impact. First, his childhood and adolescence trauma which give more negative impact to Christian, the childhood traumatic event left Christian with post traumatic stress disorder symptoms, and his adolescence, he introduces bad gratification for his anger of his birth mother. While his traumatic event in adulthood finds him a way out from the darkness and motivate him for better life. The writer will explain more about the fine conclusion of this research in this chapter.

Christian Grey is the main character in the novel Fifty Shades Darker. Although the novel point of view is Anastasia, the novel focus is most on Christian Grey's story. Christian is an interesting character who has traumatic past and alongside this story, the writer finds many evidences that Christian past traumatic experience give huge effect in his future life.

From the analysis, Christian gets his childhood trauma from his birth mother whom is a prostitute. She is very neglectful to Christian. Even she does nothing when her abusive pimp come and tortured his only son. He keeps on receiving torture alongside his childhood. It ends when his mother died and he is adopted by Dr. Grace. Later, the traumatic events make him dumb for almost two years, having night terror about his traumatic experience in dream and fear of being touch. In the age of fourteen he starts a dominant-submissive relationship with his mother's relative Elena Lincoln/ Mrs. Robinson. He becomes Elena submissive for several years. Subsequent to be Elena submissive, Christian starts to do the same to others girls in his future. In bundle of his traumatic experience in his childhood, Christian finds a way to release his anger to his birth mother. He finds girls whom look like his birth mother and ask them to be his submissive. In return, Christian gives them luxurious facilities and whips those girls as punishment for their disobedient. He admit himself that he enjoys whip those girls whom look like his mother.

Christian unconscious keeps his anger to his birth mother whom never protects him from her abusive pimp. The anger continue echoing in his heart, when he finds a way to get gratification of his anger he let his desire and anger to torture the girls whom become his submissive. All he knows about relationship between man and woman is a contract and sexual activity between submissive and dominant, and sadist and masochist. He continues his dark life till he meets Anastasia Steel. At the first time, Christian also asks Anastasia be his submissive but then, Anastasia said that she loves Christian. Christian refuses Anastasia confession. They argue ended when Christian punish Anastasia by whip her. Once Anastasia knows Christian would never love her, she leave and oddly Anastasia left make Christian realize that he needs Anastasia by his side. His guilty and anxiety make Christian endeavors to do anything in order to keep Anastasia by his side.

Anastasia presences in Christian life give positive impact. Christian stops having night terrors, he stop whip any girl because he has Anastasia, and he looks brighter. In conclusion, even his childhood trauma brought him to dark present but his trauma about left by Anastasia build his conscience works more in reduce his desire of whipping someone whom look like his birth mother and he avoid everything that make possibility of Anastasia left. He thinks more when he do something in order to understand the others feeling. Finally, he can live his brighter future with Anastasia by made Anastasia a reason for him to live better.
