

ABSTRACT

This study attempts to understand, digging, finding and described the processes traversed teenager in making decisions to marry. The research is qualitative study , with strategy case study. This research using triangulation as data validation .The subject of study is a married woman in age 18 years, married not because promised and not pregnant out marriage.

This study found four categories a discovery that which one category findings is main findings, and three categories findings is another result as a supporter main findings. First, there are some process traversed of adolescent in decision-making, starting from recognize problem, set goals to be achieved, understand the problems is going on, until finally forging the appropriate option with desire adolescent, and passed on to the stage choose, where adolescent having some reason to choose married in early adolescent, next adolescent apply the purpose after marriage.

As for another finding in find as additional data. First, found reason adolescent young married is the like each other, want to have many children, until to avoid from an arranged marriage who unexpected second, found preparations by before marriage namely, preparation science to provision marriage and to provision when have children, preparation self so that after married the responsibility of a wife can exceeded. As for preparation which should be passed by by the potential wife are run daytime TT. Third, find any of factors affect the decision-making process to marry in adolescents of them circumstance (like the way of approximately), preferences (expectations and a goal), emotions (mood), actions, (search information and discuss with another soul), beliefs (beliefs in decision-making) .

Keyword: Decision Making, Marriage, Adolescent