CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

4.1 Conclusion

Room is an international novel by Emma Donoghue. It tells how a mother's love to her child can help them both to survive in difficult situation. Therefore, the writer wants to analyze the topic using plot analysis to find out in details anything happens in the story. The writer also uses naturalism to analyze the way they survive in the locked room for five years.

The analysis on Jack and Ma's life based on New Criticism. It uses the plot analysis. The first part of plot is exposition. It introduces that they live in a single locked room because Jack's Ma has been abducted by a man who is called Old Nick. But, the author of Room doesn't present the motive of abducting. The author only shows that Jack's Ma never knows the man before. Ma is abducted by doing a trick. Old Nick pretended for asking help when she is in the college. Then, she comes to his pickup truck and he put a blindfold to her. She has the bad medicine after that and feeling sleepy, and the last she wakes up in a single locked room. Secondly is complication, it tells Jack and Ma's life inside the room. Jack and Ma live in a single locked room by doing some positive activities in schedule. They are making surprise for Jack in his five years old, creating more than one game and play it in different time. Such as 'Hum', Orchestra, Cat's Cradle, and others, telling some story as Alice in Wonderland, Hansel and Gretel, and others story. They are learning numbers and counting it. They also put their activity in schedule; as on Monday is time for washing their clothes and dirty towels, and on Wednesday is time for washing their hair. The last and the important thing is Ma is always giving her love for Jack. She kisses Jack, she never blames Jack, and doing the best things for him. All of the activity makes Jack and Ma never think that they are forced. Thirdly Crisis, it is the part when Ma remembers about her past with her family. She begins to tell jack about Jack's Grandma, Grandpa, Uncle Paul, and how much she misses them. Jack wants to know about his other family and how their life in outside. It also describes Jack and his Ma's day for making plans. It is planning to go outside the room. There are two plans which is done by Jack and Ma. The first plan fails, but the second is really working. Finally, the police helps jack to save his Ma. And it is done by Jack. Fourthly Climax, it is about Jack and Ma's life outside the room. The writer uses plot analysis to describe how their life after getting escape. Jack and Ma are not really free after escaping. They arrive at the police office first. Then, they have to do some medical treatments in Cumberland Clinic for some days. Ma meets her family again. In this part tells that there are a lot of people who know their story to escape from a single locked room. People know from newspaper and TV. Ma gets some interview because of the news. Two days later, Ma takes a lot of pill and getting overdoses. She has to get an intensive treatment. It makes Jack live in Grandma's house without his Ma for several days. The last is resolution, it describes that Jack lives with his Grandma and Step Grandpa after the accident which happen to his Ma. Then, Ma is getting her health again after that day. She backs home and very happy to see Jack. Jack asks his Ma to visit the locked room and saying good bye to anything in the room. Finally, Jack and Ma want to live at home for a week before they decide to move in the new apartment.
