

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION

The John Nash character in 'A Beautiful Mind' movie has a schizophrenia disorder. Schizophrenia is one of the serious mental illness. His disorder makes him difficult to build a good communication. From this research, the writer finds out proves that John Nash violated the Grice's maxim. The data found 28 conversations content the violation of maxim. From the data found, the writer concludes that John Nash violates the maxim by talking too short, talking too much, doing circumlocution, lying, talking with strange slang, changing the topic abruptly, giving answer and respond unmatched with the topic, and avoiding talk something. The causes of violation are existence of symptoms. The symptoms of schizophrenia are poverty of speech, poverty of content, pressure of speech, tangentiality, derailment, circumstantiality, stilted speech, and clanging.