

The quotation above did not directly show that Ever is beautiful, but implicitly, the quotation above aimed to tell the reader that Ever is beautiful.

Anyway, I don't think you have to be clairvoyant to know that when people dream of having kids they're usually thinking in term of a pastel-wrapped, tiny bundle of joy, and not some five-foot-four, blue-eyed, blond-haired teenager with physic powers and a ton of emotional baggage. (chapter 3:16)

From the quotation above, it is show that Ever has a beautiful deep blue eyes, tall and lean ,a girls with 163 cm.

3.1.2 Ever Bloom's Speech and Behavior

Through Ever Bloom's speech and behavior the reader can see how the Ever Bloom's characteristics is. The environment is one of the major factors in the development of human behavior. The unpredictability of human behavior tries to show that people are unique and operate on different ideas and backgrounds. In addition, the brain of a human being is independent to that of another person, therefore, this creates a diversity of how people think, act and make decisions. In this case, traumatic experiences is influence Ever's behavior and speech. The speech and the behavior of each character should represent their moral qualities because in the real life, individuals may be judged their personality through their speech and behavior.

Through Ever bloom's speech and behavior, Ever Bloom's characterized as a strange, faithful, stubborn, indifferent ,introvert and anti-social group. The following quotation proved that Ever Bloom's is strange person.

Based on Ever's speech, it also can be implied that she is faithfully girl especially with her friends. The following quotation proves that Ever is a faithful girl.

Based on the quotation explained above that Ever is a faithful girl. The quotation above is portrayed that Ever is faithful in her friendship. She wills to stay away from Damen. Because for Ever, having their friendship is one of the few good things in her life. Having their friendship makes she feel almost normal again.

through your feelings in you diary than have a conversation, then you are an introvert. Ever Bloom is described as an Introvert. It can be seen from the following sentence:

Haven and Miles are my best friends, my only friends. And I feel like I'm keeping enough secrets already. (Chapter 2;8)

I know better than to push it. It's not like I've confided my new aura-spotting/mind-reading abilities, or how much it's changed me, including the way I dress. (Chapter 4;22)

No one's know about her spiritual ability, because Ever decide to keeping her secrets and does not tell anyone, though her younger sister or best friends.

Person who being an introvert are who tends to turn inward mentally. Introverts sometimes avoid large groups of people, feeling more energized by time alone. Ever Bloom is called as a introvert person. It can be described from the following sentence :

“You could’ve told me about all the psychic stuff. I feel bad about making fun of your clothes” (Chapter 22;172)

The sentence explains that Ever Bloom, in Rilley's opinion is introvert person.

Like the explanation above, she can be said a introvert because she never telling Rilley about her psychic ability.

Human beings usually have a tendency to judge other people. Some of the judgments are valid and some others aren't valid. According to Encyclopedias,

In this part of this analysis , the writer want to apply Ever Bloom's personality concerning of Freud's theory in human personality. It is contained the mental condition of Ever Bloom after getting traumatic experience. The process of getting trauma begins when Ever and her family in their car and she realizes she's forgotten a Pinecone Lake Cheerleading Camp sweatshirt. Her father turns around in response to her pleas and has a wreck when a deer steps out in front of their vehicle, forcing her dad to swerve, fly down the ravine, crash into the tree. Her parents,sister,and the family dog are all killed. Ever also dies but lingers and is revived. She always thinks that it is all her fault.

their aura, and know someone's entire life story by touching them. Going out her way to avoid human contact and suppress her abilities; she can't tell about her psychic ability, not even her closest friends, which has left her angry and confused.

Before the accident, Ever didn't even know about things like that. And she is definitely wasn't able to see everyone's aura. But from the moment Ever woke in the hospital, she's noticed color everywhere. And now she's believed that Everyone's has an aura. Every living being has swirls of color emanating from their body. A rainbow energy field they're not even aware of. And it is not like it is dangerous, or scary, or in any way bad, it is just part of the visible magnetic field.

“Are you feeling okay ?” The red-haired nurse asked, gazing down anxiously.

“Yes, but why are you all pink ?” I squinted, confused by the pastel glow that enveloped her.

“Why I am what?” She struggled to ride her alarm.

“Pink. You know, it’s all around you, especially your head”

“Okay, sweetheart, you just rest and I’ll go get the doctor”

She'd said, backing out of the room and running down the hall.

It shows that after getting a car accident, Ever has an ability to see what other's aura, their previous life and in the future. From that experience, after being a horrible accident, Ever change her personality towards other people. In her former life, Ever was popular and fun, but she now hides under a hoodie , black sunglasses with headphones plugged in at all times to protect herself from her secret and the freak she feels she has become. Despite making a new friends, Ever becomes depressed, hiding her thoughts, shutting everyone out, afraid to be near anyone or touch them for fear of the consequence when she does. She distance herself from others in an effort to insulate herself from their thoughts and feelings. Ever was the epitome of popularity , she was a part of the popular crowd, where most of a teenager were cute, talented, smart, wealthy and easy going. She was a smart blond and bubbly cheerleader. Ever was very vain in her previous life, and eager to kiss with her boyfriend, Brandon. She cared only about being a cheerleader and was very content with her place in her high school caste system. While she didn't outright bully the less popular students, she never gave them much notice.

I was part of the popular crowd, where most of us were cute, athletic, talented, smart, wealthy, well liked, or all of the above. I went to school dances, had a best friend named Rachel (who was also a cheerleader like me), and I even had a boyfriend, Brandon who happened to be the sixth boy I'd ever kissed (the first was Lucas, but that was only because of a dare back in sixth grade, and trust me, the ones in between are hardly worth mentioning). And even though I was never mean to anyone who wasn't part of our group, it's not like I really noticed them either. Those kids just didn't have anything to do with me. And so I acted like they were invisible.(chapter 5:33-34)

But, her almost perfect life is totally change when a tragic car accident on a bridge leaves her orphaned from her parents, younger sister, and the family dog. When her family in in their car and she realizes she's forgotten a favorite sweatshirt. Her day. Riley Bloom is twelve year old sister of Ever Bloom. After dying in a car accident, she visits Ever. The first time was in the hospital.

It was Riley who helped Ever recover her memories. Guiding her through childhood stories and reminding Ever of the lives they used to live and the friend they used to have, until it all began to resurface. And Riley also helped Ever to appreciate her new Southern California life. Because seeing her get so excited by Ever's cool new room, her shiny red convertible, the amazing beaches, made Ever realize that even though it wasn't the life she preferred, it still had value. And even though Ever and Riley still fight and argue and get on each other's nerves as much as before, for Ever, she now lives for her visits. And being able to see Riley again gives her one less person to miss and the time they spend together is the best part of each day. Ever prefers to communicate with Riley than with other people.

“How’d you end up here?” He leans towards me.

I stare at the table, pressing my lips together in my usual nervous habit. I don't want to talk about my old life. I don't see the point of relaying all the gory details. Of having to explain how even though it's completely my fault that my entire family died, I somehow managed to live. So in the end I just tear the crust from my sandwich, and say

The dialog above indicates that the relationship between Ever and other people is less. She still feeling guilty and anxiety to tell about her traumatic experience. She stays far and takes a great distance among people.

After some visits, Riley realizes that Ever has change in the way her dresses. And she always tries to remind her sister.

“You’re never gonna get a boyfriend dressed like that,” she says, lounging on my bed...(chapter 4;23)

But Ever always ignores what they think about her way to dressed. Because only with this way, Ever can reduce all of her physics abilities. She crank her iPod and listening music very loud , wearing black sunglasses , and stretched out hoodie to avoid knowing parts of people's life at touch and avoid her head spinning from the crowd-generated energy, all of the aura colors, sounds thought swirling around her. She is feel disturbed with her ability, she wishes her powers gone and to go back to the normal life she had before.

Until one day, a new student in Bay View High School comes on her class. Damen Auguste is undeniably beautiful, with his shiny dark hair that hits just shy of his shoulders and curves around his high sculpted cheekbones, and his lips are ripe and inviting with a perfect Cupid's bow. But it is not his complete gorgeousness that has Ever so transfixed. It is mainly the way the entire area surrounding his body, starting from his glorious head and going all the way down to the his black motorcycle boots, consists of nothing but blank empty space, no color, no aura, no pulsing light show. For the first time she meets, Ever immediately realizes he has no aura at all and is puzzled by that fact. She also soon realizes that with one touch, Damen can eliminate the overwhelming influx ignore him when meets him in the school. But Ever cannot hide her feelings about Damen and secretly admitting Ever like him.

I mean, I really like him. I can't help it. I just do. And no matter how hard I try to pretend otherwise, it doesn't make it any less true. (chapter 12 ; 78)

And finally, she decides to be Damen's girlfriend and begins to take her out on various dates though she much less known about his lives.

The Id that Ever has, is strongly takes control all the things in her mind. As the Freud states, that Id is the most elements which always demands, impulsive, asocial and do anything to get the pleasure (Hall 29). In this case, Ever beliefs that only Damen who is can reduce her spiritual ability that is so great about Damen. He is like an off switch. He is the only one who can silence the sound of everyone else and also he can fulfill her will, her Id to deny her spiritual ability.

But apparently, Damen give a bad effect to her academic. She become an arrogant student and doesn't come at school often. She always follows to Damen's need. Through she realizes is an obstacle to her achievement academic. The Id is the unorganized part of the psyche that contain a human's instinctual drives. The Id is the only part of the psyche that is present at birth and it is the source of our bodily needs, wants, desires and impulses, particularly our sexual and aggressive drives. The Id is an entirely unconscious aspect of the psyche and, according to Freud, is the 'source of all psychic energy' ; thus making in the primary component of personality (Siegfried 1). On their first date, the two skip school and he takes her to Disneyland.

“And what about our classes ? We just blow off the rest of the day ?” I fold my arms across my chest, though it’s mostly for show.

He laughs and leans toward me, his lips grazing the side of my neck as they form the word yes. (chapter 15;102)

For their second date, the two skip school again and to go to lunch at a race track, where they use their psychic powers to bet on the winning horses. After she wins an eight hundred dollar bet, Damen buys her a crystal horse-shoe bit bracelet to commemorate their date. Ever realizes that her feelings for Damen are deepening, but she is still reluctant to fully open up to him and feels guilty as Haven, her best friend, is also attracted to him. On their third date, the two skip school again and he takes Ever out to the beach. It is here that he shows her a cave where he keeps many of his things, such as a surf board, wet suits, and towels. Ever starts to feel incredibly comfortable with him, to the point where she almost sleeps with him; she stops herself not wanting to loose her virginity in such a rushed way. Ever is till unsure about how true Damen's feelings are for her.

One day, Ever goes to the parking lot and desperately asks Damen to leave her alone in the beach. Ever angrily tells him that she hates him and that she never wants to see him again. She once again yells at Damen to leave her alone and hatefully flings off the bracelet he bought her and throws it on the ground. Deeply upset, but obeying her request, Damen disappears.

Even announces to Haven and Miles that she and Damen broke up and that he is gone. Miles and Haven want to accompany her and invite to the Winter Fantasy that weekend and she accepts though she is so uncomfortable in crowds. After comes on the Winter Fantasy, Ever decide to invite her friends to celebrate her broke up with Damen. She realize that only alcohol can make her feel better , taking her pain and anxiety with it. Ever soon turns to vodka to block out not only her psychic powers but her pain over breaking up with Damen.

Because of her reluctant of her psychic power is gone, she uses her ego to think a realistic way to fulfill her will. With her ego, it will stimulate the growth, elaboration of the psychological processes of perception, memory, thinking and action (Hall 29).

I stare at Haven, my body growing cold, despite the alcohol blanketing my insides. But when I take another sip, the chill slips away, taking my pain and anxiety with it.

So I take another.

And the another. (Chapter 27;216)

She uses her brain to think, which makes her wish come true, she really wants to disappear her psychic power. The id is not rational; it imagines, dreams, and invents things to get us what we want (Freud 284). The desires of the Id give rise to the Ego, which is generally the component of the psyche that ensures that the impulses of the Id are expressed in a way that is acceptable to the real world. The Ego operates according to the reality principle (Freud 38). With that ego, she drives herself in a wrong way. She denies her Superego by doing something wrong. She decides to invite her friends to spend the night with vodka. Ever think wants but she cannot reject the consequence that she almost get drop out from her school about this trouble.

“Expelled ? How do you go from honor roll to expelled ? Can you please explain that to me ?” (Chapter 28;225)

Knowing that alcohol is not an answer for her to quiet her abilities , and she knows that it is not a good way to satisfied her will. Ever decide to travels to Ava's house. Ava is a psychic. Ava graciously helps Ever create a psychic shield, it works instantly and she is thrilled that she can be normal again.

I'm still glad I came. It's the first time I've felt completely normal, without the crutch of alcohol or Damen, in a very long time. (Chapter 33;274)

Ava quickly tells her that she may want to be able to restore the shield. However Ever is so happy that she is no longer burdened by her powers she leaves Ava's home without a second thought determined to live a normal life. Ever regrets what she have done before. She is hugging to Ava in order to get her forgiveness. This is when her Superego takes control of her action. Superego is controlled by moralistic and idealistic principle which contrary to pleasure principle from id and reality principle from ego. All of what she wants does not give any satisfaction. Moreover she feel guilty and anxiety over and over.

The Super-Ego reflects the internalization of cultural rules, mainly taught by parents applying their guidance and influence. For Freud, the Super-Ego can be described as a successful instance of identification with the parental agency. The Super-Ego aims for perfection. It is made up the organized part of the personality structure which includes the individual's Ego ideals, spiritual goals, and ones conscience. The Super-Ego works in contradiction to the Id because it strives to act in a manner that is socially appropriate. As a consequence of the Super-Ego conflicting with the demands of the Id, the Ego often has to mediate between the two (Siegfried 2).

Therefore, by explanation above we might say that the id would make us as devils, the superego would make us as angels, and then the ego, it was balance between the id and superego, and it will keep us as human who has a good and bad behavior.
