CHAPTER V

CLOSSING

A. CONCLUSION

From this research and all of the explanation above we can take some conclusions:

1. the concept of Quran about management:

Quran recommends that in implementing all activities should be considered carefully about many things. It is necessary for several steps, which in principle is in line with the general theory of Management which include: planning, which is planned to mature about things before doing the activity in order to avoid regrets later on. Organizing, is maintaining the unity and cohesion and to improve cooperation among fellow members, distributed the tasks according to expertise. Actuating, providing guidance and good direction. Controlling, which held a supervisory or evaluation of the activities that have been made. Controlling, which held a supervisory or evaluation of the activities that have been done, then make amends for any shortcomings.

2. The verses relating to the management, among others: surah al-hasyr verse 18, surah al-imran verse 103, surah al-kahfi verse 2, surah al-infitar verse 10-12. As for according to exegetes, the verses, if the conclusion has led to the importance of management. In Quran teaches about the principles or how to lead and how to manage this life. This is a part of management. Thus, management is not new to Islam, because in Quran Such advice has become doctrine must be obeyed by Muslims. mufassir not provide an explanation in detail, but metaphorically;

where actual substance provided by the mufassir in clarifying issues related to management. Thus it is clear that the management did in fact have been explained by the mufassir.

B. SUGGESTION

- Because management can be applied in several areas of life, then as Muslims should learn and implement these management concept in everyday life.
- As Muslims, should not only implement general management, but management is also suggested by Quran, so what could be achieved being accountable to God and to fellow human beings.
