

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

In this chapter the researcher presented the conclusion and suggestion for the study. It included what have been discussed in the previous chapter.

5.1 Conclusion

After analyzing, presenting and discussing the data, the writer found some conclusion to answer her research problems. First, the writer found that there are three kind of language choice that usually used by street sellers in Bunderan GKB. They are; code switching, code mixing and Unda-usuk (variation within the same language). From three kind of language choice, almost all of street sellers used code mixing when they have a communication (See on table 4.1).

The second was the reason of street sellers in making language choice. The reasons for the used Javanese (Krama and Ngoko) were to show respect and politeness, show intimacy, and as a Daily language. The reasons for the used Indonesian language are as a national language and also easier to understand. The reason why they mixed some languages was that they were usually not aware of situation (crowded). It usually influenced by participant's language (person who talk with them).

The last was the social factors that influenced the street sellers in Bunderan GKB in making a language choice. Those social factors were participant, setting, topic and function and purpose. The social factors were influencing street sellers in making a language choice.

5.2 Suggestion

In this study the writer revealed three statement of problems for the used of language choice; kind of language choice, the reason for using it and the social context. There are still many subject of language choice that can be analyzed through further researches such as the use of language choice in different field such as analyze language choice used by street sellers in modern market or language choice that used by teacher when teach in the class. The writer hoped that her study can gave benefits to other researcher in sociolinguistic field.
