2.2.4.1 External Sources of Motivation

in a structured rather than an unstructured manner.<sup>66</sup> In addition game is also one of those activities. Games are powerful tools that can be used in therapy, and of course game is fun. It can make enjoy and feel better both emotionally and physically.

Practicing and developing various classroom activities in learning is very good, because student in junior and senior high school is as adolescent who has development process for their emotional mature and their intellectual.<sup>67</sup>

2.3.3 Kind of Activities in Learning

School is the centre of learning activities. Thus in the school is the arena to develop the activities. Many activities that student can do in the school, because student activities are not just listening and writing like in traditional school, they are:<sup>68</sup>

1. Visual activities, these activities involve reading, attention to the demonstration picture, experiment.
2. Oral activities, to describe, to formulate, to inquire, giving suggestion, comment, interview, discussions, and interruption.
3. Listening activities, for the example listening dialogue, discussion, music, public speaking.
4. Writing activities, writing stories, to translate.
5. Drawing activities, making diagram, graphic.

personalized activities are excellent motivators. Both communication and experience of self occur in encounter situation in which ideas, fantasies and everyday life experiences are being listened to and shared in various social formation (pair work, group work, circle discussions)

4) Self-awareness and realization.

3.8 Data Analysis

In this data analysis the researcher presents the process of gathering, transforming data with the goal of highlighting, useful information, suggesting conclusions, and supporting decisions making. This data analysis used to accumulate and organize all of the collected data according to the procedures.

In this study the researcher will provide three kinds of data. First is the result of check list observation for the student during classroom activities. Second is questionnaire to get students' response or opinion. The last is the takes notes. From all of those data, the researcher will get the result of the study. Next the researcher describes the data by classifying into findings based on the research problems those are kinds of activities in learning English and the role of motivation. Moreover, the researcher will crosscheck and select those data based on the problem which exist to find the answer of the research problems.

Last is the conclusion of this study. In the conclusions, researcher studying the theories which related to this study, looking at the data, and strengthen with the theories of motivation and learning style.

activities. In this first meeting, the teacher greeted and introduced herself to the students in order to avoid the gap between the teacher and the students. Then the teacher checked the students' attendance. The teacher also tried to have a talk with the students deal with their experience and condition in order to make them feel enjoyable with the researcher as the teacher.

First off all, for the opening the teacher gave some questions to the students about the kinds of the creature in their environment; some of students were able to answer it well, they mentioned the kinds of the creature in their environment, this section in order to stimulate the students about the knowledge in their environment. Then the teacher divided the class in to four groups and explained to them that they will play game. In this section the teacher prepared some card of picture which consists of four colors. Before playing game the teacher asked the student to send the volunteer of each group out front, who then stands facing the class, with her/his back to the board (the students pay attention to the teacher explanation), thus everyone except this person can see what the teacher writes on the board. Then the teacher wrote a word on the board and each team tried define the word without saying the actual word itself until a time limit and so on. The students looked enthusiastic in playing this vocabulary work, this activities to stimulate the students' motivation In order to get the earlier vocabulary work. (Before vocabulary works "back to the board" begun, the teacher explains to the students that the winner team or groups have the chance to choose the cards earlier the other which will be used in the picture guess.

Next, before picture guesses activities the teacher shows the report text to the students, than ask them to understand the text. The teacher tried to stimulate the students by asking the students about their knowledge concerning with the report text. The teacher asked them about the generic structure and language feature of report text. In this section sharing experience was occur between students and teacher. From this section the teacher considered that the students knew about the generic structure of report text.

Next, the teacher gave more complete explanation about report text; she asked the students pay attention to her explanation including the generic structure and the language feature of report text, the teacher explained the lesson by using the example of picture in their environment; the students looked serious when they listened to the teachers' explanation. In giving the explanation, firstly the teacher explained the meaning of report text as clearly as possible. Secondly, the teacher continued to explain the components of report text. To make students familiar with the report text, the teacher gave them the example of report text and also distribute them to the students, the text was entitled "The Elephant", the teacher gave this example of report text related to the creature in their environment since she wanted to the students to write report text in term of report in written form in the last section. This was example of report text which was given by the teacher to the student.

English by providing various classroom activities. The process of teaching and learning was successfully done by the mean of score; 3, 78 for students' motives, and 3, 28 for students' activities. But it needs another meeting in the next cycle to make sure that their motivation increase than before.

In conclusion, based on the finding above, the teacher should continue to the next cycle to reach the objective of learning. For the next cycle, the teacher had to pay attention to the practice activities.

4.1.3 The Result of the Second Cycle

4.1.3.1 Planning

Over all, the planning activities were almost the same with the previous planning in the first cycle. In this activity the teacher prepared the concept that would be used in the teaching and learning process included the lesson plan, instruments included pictures, and material. The teacher provided other activities from previous cycle to improve students' weaknesses in the first cycle. Based on the reflection of the first cycle, the teacher found that some of the student passive in practice activities when share their idea in their group because they were afraid in making mistake. Referring to these weaknesses, the teacher would give the students problem solving in pair work. In these activities, the students would ask to make pair work and solve the problem from the picture based on their knowledge and their experience. Besides, the students also would be asked to fill the blank in the table of problem solving which the text, the teacher explained it detail what the text about, and students listened it well. Then, the teacher shows some of picture to the students related to the material, this picture as teaching aid in this cycle, and students curious with the picture, then she asked them to guess what picture is. Just like in the previous cycle, the teacher also used a composite picture as the teaching aid in the second meeting. The picture consists of three different pictures but have the same topic "Air Pollution". Before the picture were showed, the teacher also stimulated the students' prior knowledge about air pollution, then she showed those pictures, and she asked the students to guess what the first, second, and third picture is. The teacher asked what kind of those pictures. The teacher also stimulated and discussed about the vocabulary which were related to the picture. Next, the teacher asked each pair to discuss what happened in that picture by using the expression asking for and giving opinion. In this section, the students identified the problem in that picture, the effect, and how to solve that problems based on the reality in their environment and the teacher controlled.

In the last part of teaching and learning process, the teacher distributed the blank table to the students and asked each pair to fill the blank what they have discussed. This is about the problem solving based on the picture. Students share and joined with their pair. The students started to fill the blank in the table. During this activity the teacher controlled and walked around the class. She also helped the student if they faced difficulty. Afterward the teacher asked them to collect the task. And ask them about the difficulty and their feel in this activity. Here the students students' motives, and 3, 93 for students' activities. All of the students motivated, they were active in the class. They express their own ideas well, and they were give good response and opinion during the class. By this finding the teacher should not continue to the next cycle because the learning objectives have been reached. Students' motivation in learning English was increased; they have good motivation than before.
