CHAPTER 4.

CONCLUSION

In this conclusion, there are three purposes in this research, they are: (1)

Describe the character and characterization Sydney Carton, as one of the main character in 'A Tale Of Two Cities. (2) Describe the development of Sydney Carton's moral. (3) Describe the effect of altruism sacrifice on Sydney Carton's in his personal life.

As to the statement number one discuss about Sydney Carton' character and characterization. Carton describes his existence as a supreme waste of life and takes every opportunity to declare that he cares for nothing and no one. Sydney Carton develop his moral because he very love Lucie, and she is the the most obviously one of the character that influence Sydney Carton. but then he try to be a very noble and altruistic person

As to the statement number two discuss about Sydney Carton begin developing his moral to reach his purpose. In first statement tell that Sydney Carton described as a young drunkard attorney who is lazy, rude, disrespectful and uncaring nature and also he does not have purpose in his life. In First stage of moral development, Sydney Carton learns that his behavior is wrong and he tries repair his behavior to get his purpose. In second stage of moral development, Sydney Carton repairs his rude and disrespectful behavior. He begins to adapts the truth based on paradigm society around him. In this level makes him becomes friendly and softened person. In third stage of moral development, Sydney Carton repair his careless and he finally fin the purpose of his life. The third stage from his moral development makes him be a beter man and altruistic person that make him steps to the guilotine, have willfully taken the place of the man who marries Lucie that he loved her very much.

As to the statement number three discuss about the effect of altruism in Sydney Carton's personal life makes him be a beter man and he shows some noble characteristics. His personality totally changes throughout the novel to become an altruistic person. Sydney Carton's final vision indicates that the evil inherent in the previous regime and the current Revolution will eventually wear itself out and Paris and the people of France will be resurrected, rising from this abyss. For those dying in the Revolution, Sydney Carton assures the seamstress that they will find everlasting life in the better land of heaven and will reunite with their loved ones there. Finally, Carton himself finds both resurrection and redemption through his death. He is not only has the comfortable of being reborn into the afterlife, but it is also uplifted at the thought of being resurrected, in a sense, through his namesake. In dying, Sydney Carton restores meaning to his life and the lives of those he loves. In addition from this discuss is also talk about altruism in islamic point of view, based on Hadits and Qur'an in islamic point of view describe that altruistic person will get an honor in this world and in heaven later. Humans are social creatures who cannot live alone without helping from other, so human must be need each other in their
