CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

1.1 Background of The Study

In the romantic period, the definitions of literature begin to develop. It is becoming virtually synonymous with the 'imaginative' (Eagleton 16). The meaning of imaginative literature is defined as a "fiction", an artistic, verbal "imitation of life" (Welleck and Warren 25). Christopher New has similar opinion about it, he argues that there are senses of 'imagination' and its cognates which are relevant to literature (76). He also reveals that fiction is often described as imaginative literature because the author is original, he invents characters and events. Therefore, it can be concluded that literature is an art activity in written work which deals with author's imagination. Here, fiction is any literary narrative such as prose or verse, which is invented instead of being an account of events that in fact happened (Abrams 94).

One of literary works is novel. It is a fictional prose narrative and having plot that is extended by the characters, speech, and action. As an extended narrative, the novel is distinguished from the short story and from the novelette, its magnitude permits a greater variety of character, greater complication of plots (Abrams 190). This study takes a novel as the research object because novel is a fiction that comes from author's imagination and has complex storyline than the other literary works such as poem and short story.

In this study, the researcher chooses The lightning thief novel by Rick Riordan as her research object. Rick Riordan was Born on June 5, 1964, in San Antonio, Texas, U.S. He lives in Boston with his wife and two sons. He becomes bestselling author of over twenty novels for young readers, including the Percy Jackson series, the Kane Chronicles, the Magnus Chase series and the Trials of Apollo. Their two sons who inspire his Percy Jackson series as bedtime story. His oldest son, Haley is the model for Percy since he is dyslexic. Then, Greek mythology is one of the only subjects that interested in school. Motivated by Haley's request, Rick Riordan starts to write The Lightning Thief (Rickriordan.com/about/).

The Lightning Thief novel tells about a twelve years old boy named Percy who is dyslexic. He is a student at Yancy Academy, a private boarding school in upstate New York. Percy lives normally as human and does not know that he is demigod. But his life completely changes after he is attacked by his teacher who changes to be monster. After the incident, Percy must live in Half-blood camp for his safety. In that place, he knows that he is demigod. Besides that, he also knows that Zeus accuses him as the lightning thief. Then, Zeus will declare a war if the lightning bolt is not returned by the summer solstice that is June twenty-first. Therefore, Percy must do a trip to find and return the lightning bolt.

In The Lightning Thief novel, although Percy is described as demigod but he has basic needs, like human or common people. Percy lives in mortal world with his mother who is human. Percy still needs food, drink, sleep, love and even he can die. Since Percy is accused as the lightning thief, the only his desire is just to find the lightning bolt to show that he is not the lightning thief. For Percy, to find the lightning bolt is the top of his needs because he wants to free from the accusation. Besides that, he wants to save his mother who is arrested by Hades and prevent the war.

Based on the explanation above, The researcher chooses The Lightning Thief novel as the research object because she is interested in Percy as the main character and how his efforts to find the lightning bolt. Moreover, it is not easy for him to find the lightning bolt because many monsters and his enemies try to kill him. But Percy never gives up to the condition, he still tries to find the lightning bolt although he does not know how the result of his effort.

The researcher thinks that Percy has the needs which must be fulfilled in his trip to find the lightning bolt. So, in order to understand Percy's efforts to reach his goal, the researcher uses Abraham Maslow's hierarchy of needs theory. There are five levels of need: The first level is physiological needs, the second level is safety needs, the third level is love and belongingness needs, the fourth level is esteem needs, and the last level is self- Actualization needs. Besides that, the researcher also uses new criticism theory as supporting theory. This research tends to analyze Percy's characterization, his efforts to find the lightning bolt and the effects of his effort found in the novel.

1.2 Statement of The Problems

Based on the background of the study above, the writer is interested in analyzing the problems which are formulated as follows:

1. How is the characterization of Percy in The Lightning Thief novel?
2. How are the efforts of Percy to find the lightning bolt?
3. What are the effects of Percy's effort to find the lightning bolt?

1.3 Objectives of The Study

Based on the statement of the problems that are stated above, the objectives studies are:

1. To describe the characterization of Percy in the novel.
2. To describe Percy's efforts to find the lightning bolt.
3. To find out the effects of Percy's effort to find the lightning bolt.

1.4 Scope and Limitation

In accordance with the objectives of the study, this study focuses on Percy as the main character in the novel. The analysis tends to describe: First, Percy's characterization. Second, Percy's efforts to find the lightning bolt. The last, the effects of his effort to find the lightning bolt. Dealing with the research questions above, this research uses Abraham Maslow's hierarchy of needs theory to analyze Percy's efforts to find the lightning bolt. Besides that, new criticism is used to analyze Percy's characterization in the novel.

1.5 Significance of The Study

This study is expected to give valuable contribution for English department students and the readers of literary works. First, the researcher hopes that this study can be useful for the readers in order to understand the contents of this novel and how the Maslow's hierarchy of needs and characterization study are applied in this research. Second, this study can be used as reference, especially for students of English Department in State Islamic University of Sunan Ampel Surabaya who wants to analyze another aspect of this novel or another novel by using hierarchy of needs theory and new criticism theory. Then, the researcher also hopes that the reader can learn from the main character in the novel: about his efforts to face the problems that appear in his life. Percy is the main character who never gives up to reach his goal. So, through this research, the readers also learn how to reach a goal in life.

1.6 Method of The Study.

This subchapter consists of four main discussions, there are research design, data source, data collection, and data analysis.

1.6.1 Research Design

This study applies descriptive qualitative to describe and uncover the data which relate to the statement of the problems. The qualitative approach is used because this research analyzes the data descriptively based on Maslow's hierarchy of need theory and new criticism theory. As Bodgan and Biklen explain that the qualitative research is a descriptive study. The data are collected in form of words or pictures rather than numbers (5).

3. After the researcher analyzes Percy's efforts in the novel, she analyzes the effects of Percy's effort to find the lightning bolt.
4. Making conclusion based on the result of data analysis.

1.7 Definition of Key term

1. Effort: Physical or mental activity needed to achieve something (Cambridge dictionary).
2. Demigod: Half human and Half God (Riordian 100).
3. Half-Blood Camp: The place for demigod training facility (Riordian 75).
4. Lightning bolt: The weapon or the symbol of power of Zeus (Riordian 141).
5. Olympus: The home of the gods in ancient Greek mythology (Riordian 78).

CHAPTER II

LITERATURE REVIEW

2.1 Theoretical Framework

The second chapter consists of two theories that is used to analyze The Lightning Thief novel. The theories are Abraham Maslow's hierarchy of needs theory and new criticism theory as supporting theory.

2.1.1 New Criticism

The new criticism is an Anglo-American variety of formalism that emerged in the early decades of the twentieth century and dominated teaching and scholarship until the early 1960s (Castle 122). It involves the careful analysis of a literary text's craft. Ignoring any historical context, any biographical information about an author, any philosophical or psychological issues, or even any of a text's political or moral messages (Gillespie 172). According to Tyson in his book Critical Theory Today, new criticism called close reading. It focuses on the reader's attention on the literary work as the sole source of evidence for interpreting the text (136). So, the term of close reading means that the reader needs to focus only on the text or literary work and does not need to think about the background of the literary work making. Tyson also explains, "closely read," or explication is all the evidence provided by the language of the text itself: its images, symbols, metaphors, rhyme, meter, the point of view, setting, characterization, plot, and so on are called formal element. The formal element is important, it is needed to understand the meaning of the text itself in order to interpret the text (137).

In simple definition, new criticism theory is used to analyze a text or literary work based on close reading method. It means that new criticism only focuses on the text itself without attention to the author's background etc. By reading closely to the text, it helps the reader to understand formal elements in the text or literary work more clearly and deeply. Based on a formal element that is mentioned by Tyson, this study only focuses on characterization of Percy Jackson as the main character in Rick Riordan's The Lightning Thief.

2.1.1.1 Character

A character in a novel or play is not a real human being and has no life outside the literary composition. It is just illusion of reality that has been created by the author (Tyson 62). Like a human being, the character has own characteristic. It can be known by his or her attitude and personality in the text or literary work. As Abrams says that characters are the persons represented in a dramatic or narrative work who is interpreted by the reader as being endowed with particular moral, intellectual, and emotional qualities by inferences from what the person says and their distinctive ways of saying it (the dialogue) and from what they do (the action) (32-33).

According to Brown and Tomlinson, there are usually one or two main characters and some minor characters. Ideally, Sometimes the main character called the protagonist. It will be fully described, complex individual who has both good and bad traits, like a real person. Whereas, minor or secondary characters may be described in a less complete or partial manner. It means that the extent of description depends on what the reader needs to know about the character for a full understanding of the story. Some of the minor character's traits are described fully. Whereas, other facets of the character's personality may remain obscure because the purpose is to build the story and make it comprehensible (29).

This study focuses on Percy. He is Poseidon's son who does an effort to find the lightning bolt. In this novel, Percy becomes the main character because the story tells about Percy's life and his efforts to find the lightning bolt. Percy is presented as a complex character with many strengths and weaknesses. As brown and Tomlinson explain that the main character will be fully described, complex individual who has both good and bad traits. By analyzing the character widely, it helps to analyze the character of Percy easily.

2.1.1.2 Characterization

Holman says " In fiction, the author reveals the characters of imaginary persons. The creation of these imaginary persons so that they exist for the reader as real within the limits of the fiction is called characterization"(75). Meanwhile, Brown and Tomlinson state that characterization refers to the way an author helps the reader to know a character. The most obvious way an author can do this is to describe the character's physical appearance and personality. In the most convincing characterization, the readers see the character through a combination of her own actions and dialogue, the responses of the characters to her, and the narrator's descriptions (29). According to M.H Abrams in his book "A Glossary of Literary Terms", There are two methods for characterizing the person in a narrative: showing and telling. In showing or the dramatic method, the author may show not only external speech and actions, but also a character's inner thoughts, feelings, and responsiveness to events. In the telling, the author intervenes authoritatively in order to describe, and often to evaluate, the motives and dispositional qualities of the characters (34).

Based on the explanation above, the characterization may give information to the reader in understanding the character by paying attention to the character's speeches, action, and comments of the other character. So, by using characterization, the researcher is expected to know and understand the character of Percy Jackson in the novel more clearly and deeply.

2.1.2 Abraham Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs Theory

Abraham Maslow is the founder and spiritual leader of the humanistic psychology movement. He was strongly critical of behaviorism and of psychoanalysis (Schultz 300). According to Maslow, human beings have two basic sets of needs that are rooted in their biology: deficiency (or basic) needs, and growth (or meta) needs. The basic needs are more urgent than the growth needs and are arranged in a hierarchical order (Ryckman 425). In the hierarchy of needs, people cannot fulfill all the needs at the same time because only one need will dominate their personality. It will depend on which of the others have been satisfied. For example: when people feel hungry, certainly they are motivated to eat, they do not see beyond food because their primary motivation is to obtain something to eat. However, Maslow suggests that the order of the needs can be changed if there is an economic recession causes some people to lose their jobs, so the safety and physiological needs may reassume priority (Schultz 304).

Maslow's view of motivation rests on several basic assumptions. First, Maslow (1970) adopted a holistic approach to motivation: That is, the whole person, not any single part of the function, is motivated. The whole person is constantly being motivated by one need or another and that people have the potential to grow toward self-actualization. Second, motivation is usually complex, it means that a person's behavior may spring from several separate motives, for example; the desire for the sexual union may be motivated not only by a genital need but also by needs for dominance, companionship, love, and self-esteem. Third, people are continually motivated by one need or another. It means, when one need is fulfilled, it ordinarily loses its motivational power and then is replaced by another need. Fourth, all people everywhere are motivated by the same basic needs. It means although the people are in different culture, the needs for food, safety, and friendship are common to the entire species. And the final assumption concerning motivation is that needs can be arranged in a hierarchy. Maslow's hierarchy of needs concept assumes that lower level needs must be satisfied or at least relatively satisfied before higher level needs become people motivated to fulfill the next needs, and so on. Based on the explanation above, the researcher uses a hierarchy of needs theory of Abraham Maslow to analyze Percy's efforts to find the lightning bolt.

2.1.2.1 Physiological Needs

People must fulfill physiological needs before they fulfill other needs. The physiological need is the lowest level in the hierarchy of needs. The needs are taken as the starting point for motivation theory. Physiological needs are basic: The body craves food, liquid, sleep, oxygen, sex, freedom of movement, and a moderate temperature. When any of these are in short supply, people feel the distressing tension of hunger, thirst, fatigue, shortness of breath, sexual frustration, confinement, or the discomfort of being too hot or cold (Griffin 127).

Physiological needs differ from other needs in at least two important respects. First, they are the only needs that can be completely satisfied or even overly satisfied. People can get enough to eat so that food completely loses its motivational power. But, For someone who has just finished a large meal, the thought of more food can even have a nauseating effect. A second characteristic peculiar to physiological needs is their recurring nature. It means that after people have eaten, they will eventually become hungry again (Feist 279).

So, the physiological needs are the most important of all needs. People can't fulfill the next level of needs before the physiological need is satisfied. If people have lack condition, for example; when people feel hungry, certainly they are motivated to eat , they do not see beyond food because their primary motivation is or through social relationships formed within a group. Many people attempt to satisfy the need to belong in other ways, such as joining a church, club, or Internet chat room, enrolling in a class, or volunteering for a service organization. Maslow does not equate love with sex, which is a physiological need, but he recognizes that sex is one way of expressing the love need. He suggests that the failure to satisfy the need for love is a fundamental cause of emotional maladjustment (Schultz 306).

Maslow's concept of belonging combines the twin urges to give and receive love. He states "giving love is seeking to fill a void by understanding and accepting selected others. Receiving love is a way of staving off the pangs of loneliness and rejection" (Griffin 128). In other words, love needs involve both giving and receiving love. So, people have the opportunity to love and be loved.

2.1.2.4 Esteem Needs

When belongingness and love needs are satisfied, people proceed more or less automatically to the next level, it is the esteem needs. Maslow says "All people in our society (with a few pathological exceptions) have a need or desire for a stable, firmly based, usually high evaluation of themselves, for self-respect, or self-esteem, and for the esteem of others". These needs are classified into two subsidiary sets. These are, first, the desire for strength, for achievement, for adequacy, for mastery and competence, for confidence in the face of the world, and for independence and freedom. Second, we have what we may call the desire for reputation or prestige (defining it as respect or esteem from other people), status, fame and glory, dominance, recognition, attention, importance, dignity, or appreciation. Satisfaction of the self-esteem need leads to feelings of self-confidence, worth, strength, capability, and adequacy, of being useful and necessary in the world (Maslow 45). So, the satisfaction of the need for esteem needs help people to reach the need for self-actualization needs.

2.1.2.5 Self-Actualization Needs

When people are satisfied with the esteem needs, they become motivated by the need for self-actualization. Maslow says “ Even if all these needs are satisfied, People may still often (if not always) expect that a new discontent and restlessness will soon develop, unless the individual is doing what he is fitted for. A musician must make music, an artist must paint, a poet must write, if he is to be ultimately happy. What a man can be, he must be. He must be true to his own nature. This need we may call self-actualization.” (46). It means that people need to increase their potential. And then each people has different way to increase their potential. It helps people to achieve their goals and becomes what they want to be. People who try to reach the goal in their lives will do anything and it can bring effects to their behavior or personality. The effect of their motivation towards their personality can be seen either positive or negative (Maslow 55). Self-actualization can take many forms, depending on the individual. These variations may include the quest for knowledge, understanding, peace, self-fulfillment, meaning in life, or beauty (Griffin 130).

So, after people are satisfied the physiological needs, safety needs, belongingness and love needs, esteem needs, they can fulfill self-actualization needs. In this need, people must take their passion into reality such as musician must make music, an artist must paint, and so on.

2.2 Review of Related Studies

In order to enlarge the knowledge about this research, the researcher reviewed the previous study which has relation to this research in some aspects.

First, a research entitled structural analysis of plot in Rick Riordan's Percy Jackson and The Olympians: The Lightning Thief by Dani Irawan, a student of UIN Maulana Malik Ibrahim Malang. In this research, the researcher focuses on analyzing the kind of plot in the novel using Greimas structuralism. As the result, the researcher states that the plot of the novel is a dramatic or chronological plot because of the story through in chronological order.

Second, a research entitled Fulfillment of George's Actualization in Stowe's Uncle Tom's Cabin by May Sharrah, a student of UIN Sunan Ampel Surabaya. The researcher uses Maslow's hierarchy of need theory. The study analyzes George's fulfillment to achieve his self-actualization and the impact of his actualization. As the result, the researcher states that George's status as an enslaved man does not hamper his way to fulfill his need and to achieve his self-actualization. The researcher also finds that George's self-actualization has an impact for himself and also for the other characters in the novel.

Third, a research entitled An Analysis of Main Characters Self Esteem in Pain and Gain Movie by Muhammad Ali Ibrahim, a student of UIN Syarif Hidayatullah Jakarta. This research discusses the main characters fulfill the needs and reach the self-esteem characteristic needs with their evil plans, through the hierarchy of needs of Abraham Maslow's thought. As the result, the researcher finds out that the main character fulfills four levels of needs; physiological needs, safety needs, and love and belongingness needs, and self-esteem needs. But, the main characters are not perfect in completing and filling the self- esteem needs especially on the recognition of others of financial status and property because there are some consequences of the lack of self- esteem needs and its bad consequences.

Based on the previous studies above, the differences between this study and the previous studies are: First, in Irawan's graduation paper, he uses the same novel, like this present study but in different theory. He focuses on the kinds of plot in the lightning thief novel using Greimas structuralism. Second, in Sharrah's graduation paper. She uses the same theory, like this present study but she analyses how the main character shows his self-actualization deeper than other needs. Third, in Ibrahim's graduation paper. He uses the same theory but in different research object. He uses movie as the research object using Abraham Maslow's hierarchy of needs theory, but he just analyzes the physiological needs, safety needs, love and belongingness needs and the needs for self- esteem.

So, those explanations make this study different than other previous studies that have already written. In this present study, the researcher focuses on the analysis of Percy's characterization, his efforts to find the lightning bolt and the effects of his effort found in Rick Riordan's The Lightning Thief novel. In this research, The researcher analyzes all the needs of Percy from the lowest needs until the highest needs based on Hierarchy of needs by Abraham Maslow:

Physiological needs, safety needs, love and belongingness needs, esteem needs and self-actualization needs. Besides that, the researcher also analyzes Percy's characterization using new criticism theory.

CHAPTER III

Percy's Efforts to find the lightning bolt in Rick Riordan's The Lightning Thief

This chapter provides the analysis of the study. The researcher uses two theories; Abraham Maslow's hierarchy of needs and new criticism in order to answer the research questions. This chapter is divided into three parts. First, Percy's characterization. Second, Percy's efforts to find the lightning bolt. The last, the effects of Percy's effort to find the lightning bolt.

3.1 Percy's characterization

In the novel, Percy is presented as the main character because Percy is a dominant character and always there in every part of the story. He is also the narrator who narrates all the events. According to Brown and Tomlinson, the main character called protagonist. It will be fully described, complex individual who has both good and bad traits, like a real person (29).

Based on the explanation above, Percy automatically becomes protagonist character. He is an important figure and appears on the whole story. The character also has characterization. Brown and Tomlinson state that characterization refers to the way an author helps the reader to know a character. In the most convincing characterization, the readers see the character through a combination of her own

Based on the issue above, Percy has to do some efforts in order to find the lightning bolt. And the only way to find the lightning bolt is to go to underworld. It is because the oracle tells that Percy will find the lightning bolt in the west and meet the God who has betrayed.” You shall go west, and face the god who has turned” (Riordian 146). In this case, Percy believes that Hades is the real lightning thief who has stolen the lightning bolt because Hades hates his brothers; Zeus and Poseidon. So, Hades is the only possibility who will get luck through the dispute between Poseidon and Zeus. Therefore, the main purpose in his trip comes to underworld that located in Los Angeles. The quotation is explained below:

” Someone who hates his brothers for forcing him into an oath to have no more children, an oath that both of them have now broken. Chiron nodded. “The Lord of the Dead is the only possibility.” (Riordian 145).

"The entrance to the Underworld is always in the west. It moves from age to age, just like Olympus. Right now, of course, it's in America."
 "Where?". Chiron looked surprised. "I thought that would be obvious enough. The entrance to the Underworld is in Los Angeles." (Riordian 152)

Based on the explanation above, the way of his effort to find the lightning bolt: go to the Underworld, find the lightning bolt, and reveal the truth. Besides that, Percy must be ready to leave half-blood camp, go to the west with no adult supervision and no backup plan. It is because he will meet any dangerous situations in his trip to find the lightning bolt such as monsters, his enemies or someone who does not like him.

” I was actually leaving Half-Blood Hill. I was heading west with no adult supervision, no backup plan, not even a cell phone. (Chiron said cell phones were traceable by monsters; if we used one, it would be worse than sending up a flare.) I had no weapon stronger than a sword to fight off monsters and reach the Land of the Dead.” (Riordian 161).

Since Percy is accused as the lightning thief. The top of his need is to find the lightning bolt and return it to Zeus. It is the only way to prevent the war and show that he is not the lightning thief. "I had to get the bolt back to Olympus and tell Zeus the truth. I had to stop the war." (Riordian 131). By finding the lightning bolt, he also will save his mother who is arrested by Hades in underworld. "I was ready to take him on. Besides, if my mother was in the Underworld." (Riordian 150). Therefore, the researcher uses hierarchy of needs by Abraham Maslow to analyze Percy's efforts to find the lightning bolt. As it has been explained previously at chapter II, Hierarchy of needs theory is divided into five clusters of needs. They are physiological needs, safety needs, love and belongingness needs, esteem needs and self-actualization needs.

The theory shows that if physiological needs are satisfied, it will make people motivation to fulfill the next needs, and so on. By applying the stages in Maslow's hierarchy of needs. The researcher will reveal how Percy's efforts to reach his goal to find the lightning bolt. It starts with the explanation of Percy's physiological needs, and then followed by her safety needs, love and belongingness needs, esteem needs and the higher needs that is self-actualization needs.

3.2.1 Percy's Physiological needs

The first level of Maslow's hierarchy of needs is the needs for physiological needs such as food, drink and sleep. The physiological needs are the basic need because the other needs cannot be fulfilled before the physiological needs are already satisfied. The data below will show the physiological needs of Percy:

Although Percy is demigod but he has basic needs, like human being. He needs food, drink and sleep. "I shook my head. I wished I could help her, but I felt too hungry and tired and mentally overloaded to ask any more questions" (Riordian 105). The quotation shows that Percy cannot think as well when he feels hunger and tired. Therefore, Percy needs to fulfill his physiological needs in his trip to find the lightning bolt.

The needs of food and drink are important to Percy because he must be strong and healthy especially in his trip to find the lightning bolt. These needs are needed after the fatigue of a long trip. Without food and drink, he can be hungry, thirsty and has no energy to continue his trip. Even he can die if he cannot fulfill these needs in a long day. As Maslow says, the need of self-actualization cannot be fulfilled if the lower need cannot be fulfilled. So, the needs of food and drink must be fulfilled in order to reach the next need.

In these needs, the researcher finds that Percy gets problem to fulfill the needs of food and drink because he cannot eat regularly during his trip to find the lightning bolt. It is because he left his money and his food in the bus when he is attacked by Erinyes. "All our money was back there," I reminded her. "Our food and clothes everything." (Riordian 174). Because of the incident, Percy gets difficulty to fulfill the needs of food and drink in the next day. "We hadn't eaten since the night before in the dining car, somewhere in Kansas" (Riordian 227).

Although he gets the problem to fulfill the needs of food and drink, but Percy still (Feist 279). Based on the characteristic, Percy can be hungry again although he has eaten. For that reason, he will motivate to fulfill his needs of food and drink when there is no food supply.

Based on explanation above, Percy always needs food and drink to keep alive. In this case, Percy gets food and drink from Ares, God of war. It happens when Percy comes to the restaurant in the middle of his trip. There, Percy wants to buy food but he does not have money. Then, Ares comes and asks the waitress to give some food and drink for Percy and his friends.

“The waitress came back with heaping trays of food-cheeseburgers, fries, onion rings, and chocolate shakes. Ares handed her a few gold drachmas. She looked nervously at the coins. "But, these aren't..." Ares pulled out his huge knife and started cleaning his fingernails. "Problem, sweetheart?" The waitress swallowed, then left with the gold” (Riordian 234).

Besides, Percy also gets food and drink in the Lotus Casino, a beautiful place that full of joy. There are many games and foods. He visits that place for rest. In that place, he fulfills the needs of food and drink by eating chips and drinking three coke. Percy also feels better there.

“I took a shower, which felt awesome after a week of grimy travel. I clothe, ate a bag of chips, drank three Cokes, and came out feeling better than I had in a long time. In the back of my mind, some small problem kept nagging me. I'd had a dream or something ... I needed to talk to my friends. But I was sure it could wait.” (Riordian 269).

The next need is sleep. The need of sleep is also important for Percy because he must continue the trip to find the lightning bolt. Thus, he needs to sleep for his healthy and energy. In his trip to find the lightning bolt, the researcher finds that sometimes Percy feels difficulty to sleep because he must

Someone who becomes demigod likes Percy. He needs protection to save him from the monsters who try to kill him. Especially when he lives in the mortal world, it is because the monster can know demigod's smell in the mortal world. In this case, his mother married to Gabe (Percy's stepfather) in order to protect him from the danger. It is because his step father has a unique smell that can lose the smell of demigod in Percy's body. Thus, Percy can live in the mortal world until he is twelve years old.

“You should be grateful, Percy. Your stepfather smells so repulsively human he could mask the presence of any demigod. As soon as I took a whiff inside his Camaro, I knew: Gabe has been covering your scent for years. If you hadn't lived with him every summer, you probably would've been found by monsters a long time ago. Your mom stayed with him to protect you.” (Riordian 165).

Day by day, Erinyes or Hades's monster knows the presence of Percy. For that reason, Percy lives at the half-blood camp, the safest place for demigod. In that place, Percy can be free from the monster. “Annabeth frowned. “Don't you get it, Percy? You are home. This is the only safe place on earth for kids like us.” (Riordian 100).

But Percy cannot always stay at the half-blood camp because he wants freedom from fear. Thus, he leaves the camp to find the lightning bolt. In his trip, Percy is accompanied by Annabeth and Grover who are ready to help and protect him. It is described when they meet Erinyes in the trip. There, Percy gets protection from Annabeth. She gives her invisible hat to Percy in order to make the monster cannot see the existence of Percy.

and competence, for confidence in the face of the world, and for independence and freedom. Second, we have what we may call the desire for reputation or prestige (defining it as respect or esteem from other people), status, fame and glory, dominance, recognition, attention, importance, dignity, or appreciation” (45). Self-esteem is a person’s own feeling of worth and confidence. In other words, self-esteem is based on real competence and not merely on others opinion (Feist 281). When people lack self-esteem, they feel inferior, helpless and discouraged with little confidence in their ability to cope (Schultz 306). Whereas reputation is the perception of the prestige, recognition, or fame a person has achieved in the eyes of others (Feist 281).

In the lightning thief novel, Percy has esteem needs not only from his own self, but also from others. If he is unable to satisfy these needs, then he will feel inferiority of weakness and helplessness. The analysis of esteem needs that exist within Percy will be divided into two parts as below:

The first is self-esteem. In this case, Percy wants the desire for independence and freedom. Since Percy is accused as the lightning thief, Percy cannot go anywhere, he must stay at half-blood camp for his safety. He also cannot get on a plane because the sky is in Zeus’s domain. Zeus thinks that Percy is the thief of his thunderbolt. Definitely, Zeus will never let Percy to alive if Percy is in Zeus’s domain.

“Oh," I said. "Naturally. So we just get on a plane-"
 "No!" Grover shrieked. "Percy, what are you thinking? Have you ever been on a plane in your life?" I shook my head, feeling embarrassed. My mom had never taken me anywhere by plane. She'd always said we didn't have the money. Besides, her parents had died in a plane crash.

amazed when Percy succeeds to kill Medusa. In this case, she recognizes the bravery of Percy.

“After a few minutes, Annabeth fell into line next to me. “Look, I...” Her voice faltered. “I appreciate your coming back for us, okay? That was really brave.”

"We're a team, right?" She was silent for a few more steps. "It's just that if you died ... aside from the fact that it would really suck for you, it would mean the quest was over. This may be my only chance to see the real world. (Riordan 175)

From the quotation above shows that Percy gets appreciation from Annabeth because his bravery. Besides, there is Grover who also recognizes the brave of Percy to defeat Medusa “Look, Percy, I'm not as smart as Annabeth. I'm not as brave as you. But I'm pretty good at reading emotions. You're glad your dad is alive. You feel good that he's claimed you, and part of you wants to make him proud. That's why you mailed Medusa's head to Olympus. You wanted him to notice what you'd done.” (Riordan 201). In this case, when Grover recognizes the brave of Percy who succeeds to kill Medusa, automatically Grover believes to Percy's ability. Thus, Percy can kill Medusa with his ability and his brave.

Then, Percy also gets esteem need of Erinyes. She is Hades's monster who thinks that Percy is the thief of Zeus's lightning bolt and Hades's helm of darkness. Then, one moment makes her to think different about Percy. It happens when Erinyes listens the conversation of Percy and Ares in their battle. Ares recognizes that he is the real thief. In this case, Erinyes recognizes and believes that Percy is not the thief of Zeus's lightning bolt. It means that Percy gets back his reputation as a good boy who never steals the lightning bolt.

he will find the lightning bolt in the underworld. But, after Percy arrives to the underworld, Hades accuses him as the thief of the lightning bolt and his helm of darkness. Hades's statement is supported by finding the lightning bolt in his bag. It is explained by the quotation below:

“I was speechless. I had no helm. I had no idea how the master bolt had gotten into my backpack. I wanted to think Hades was pulling some kind of trick. Hades was the bad guy. But suddenly the world turned sideways. I realized I'd been played with. Zeus, Poseidon, and Hades had been set at each other's throats by someone else. The master bolt had been in the backpack, and I'd gotten the backpack from.” (Riordan 328)

From the quotation above, it shows that Percy has founded the lightning bolt. Besides that, he knows that Ares is the real thief because the bag is given by Ares. Therefore, he must go out from the underworld and meet Ares. In this case, he uses the three pearls who has given by Nereid to take him and his friends from the underworld. Then, the pearls explode them on the surface, in the middle of the Santa Monica Bay.

In Santa Monica beach, he meets Ares and fights with him. The battle ended when Ares left Percy in their battle. It is shown when Ares's body begins to glow and disappear. Besides that, Ares leaves the helm of darkness in the beach. Then, Percy picks the helm and walks toward his friends. After the incident, he meets Erinyes who has watched the battle between Percy and Ares. In this case, Percy gives the helm of darkness to Erinyes and asks her to tell the truth to Hades about the real thief.

“His body began to glow. “Percy!” Annabeth shouted. “Don't watch!” I turned away as the god Ares revealed his true immortal form. I somehow knew that if I looked, I would disintegrate into ashes. The light died. I looked back. Ares was gone. The tide rolled out to reveal Hades's bronze helm of darkness. I picked it up and walked toward my friends.” (Riordian 345).

“We saw the whole thing,” she hissed. “So ... it truly was not you?” I tossed her the helmet, which she caught in surprise. “Return that to Lord Hades,” I said. “Tell him the truth. Tell him to call off the war.” (Riordian 346).

After Percy gives the helm of darkness to Erinyes, Percy goes to Olympus without accompanied by his friend. It is because Percy asks his friends to go back to half-blood camp. In the Olympus, Percy meets Zeus and Poseidon. Then, he tells all the whole things he faces in his trip and gives the lightning bolt to Zeus.

“Zeus opened his palm. The lightning bolt flew into it. As he closed his fist, the metallic points flared with elec-tricity, until he was holding what looked more like the clas-sic thunderbolt, a twenty-foot javelin of arcing, hissing energy that made the hairs on my scalp rise.” (Riordian 355).

Because of Percy’s success to find and return the lightning bolt, Zeus accepts it and recognizes the great skill of Percy to finish this mission. Zeus appreciates his efforts to find the lightning bolt because there are not many heroes which can do it. And now Percy has completed his quest.

“Zeus held up his hand angrily. "We will speak of this no more," Zeus said. "I must go personally to purify this thunderbolt in the waters of Lemnos, to remove the human taint from its metal." He rose and looked at me. His expression softened just a fraction of a degree. You have done me a service, boy. Few heroes could have accomplished as much.” (Riordian 356).

So, based on the explanation above. It shows that Percy can fulfill his need for self of actualization. Percy has finished his mission to find the lightning bolt and return it to Zeus. For his success, he can show to Zeus and the people around him that he is not the lightning thief.

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

Based on the whole discussion in chapter 3. There are several points that should be underlined. First is Percy's characterization. The result shows that Percy becomes the main character because he is an important figure and appears on the whole story. Besides that, he is also the narrator who narrates all the events and experience he has. In his efforts to find the lightning bolt, Percy has many characteristics such as kind, loyal, brave and tricky. First, he is brave to defeat monsters that he faces in his trip to find the lightning bolt. Second, he is tricky because he has brilliant idea to defeat his enemy. In this case, he is not only using his power but also using his brain. And the other characterization, Percy is loyal to his friend. For his solidarity, he chooses to save his friends first who always accompany him in his big mission than his mother. The last, Percy is also kind because he does not only care with himself but also the other people like when Percy wants to protect a family from the monsters in the previous chapter.

Second is about Percy's efforts to find the lightning bolt using Maslow's hierarchy of needs theory. This theory is used because the researcher thinks that Percy has the needs which must be fulfilled in his effort to find the lightning bolt. There are five levels of need, those are physiological needs, safety needs, love and belongingness needs, esteem needs, and self- Actualization needs. Although Percy is demigod but he has basic needs, like human being. He needs food, drink, sleep, love. Since Percy is accused as the lightning thief, the top of his needs is to find the lightning bolt. The result shows that Percy can fulfill all the needs until he finds the lightning bolt. First is physiological needs, in this needs, Percy can fulfill the needs for food, drink, and sleep although sometimes Percy cannot eat regularly and must sleep in a shift. Second is safety needs, in this need, Percy gets protection at the half-blood camp, a safest place for Demigod. Besides that, he also gets protection from his friends during his trip to find the lightning bolt. Third is love and belongingness needs, in this need, Percy gets love from his mother and his friends who always give support during his trip. Fourth is esteem needs, in this need, he gets self-esteem need when he wants the desire to be free from the accusation as the lightning thief. He also gets esteem of others because the people recognize the brave of Percy to defeat the monster, And the last is self-actualization, the need for self-actualization is seen when Percy succeeds to find the lightning bolt and return it to Zeus. Besides, he can show that he is not the lightning thief.

The last point of the analysis. The researcher reveals the effects of Percy's success to find and return the lightning bolt are: Percy is free from the accusation as the lightning thief and he is more confident to live in mortal world although the place is not safe for demigod because the monster will try to kill him. Besides that, Percy can prevent the war because Zeus has changed his assumptions to Percy after he knows that Percy is not the lightning thief. For that reason, he calls off the war. Then, Percy can save his mother from Hades. It is because Percy has returned the helm of darkness (Hades's symbol of power) to Hades. In this case, Hades believes that Percy is not the thief of his helm of darkness and the lightning bolt.

From the result of analysis as it has been explained above, it can be seen that Percy has hard effort to find the lightning bolt. Although it is not easy to find the lightning bolt because he gets any obstacles in his trip, but he can fulfill all his needs until he succeeds to find the lightning bolt. The impacts of Percy's success to find and return the lightning bolt are: Percy is free from the accusation and he is more confident to live in mortal world. Besides that, the war can be avoided and Percy can save his mother.
