CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONAND SUGGESTION

This chapter presents the conclusion and suggestions dealing with the findings of the analysis. It presents the summary of findings which are discussed in the previous chapter. Those are the answers of the research problems that are presented in the first chapter.

5.1 Conclusion

The writer finds four types of language style used by Romeo the main characters. There are formal style, casual style, consultative style and intimate style. From the findings that have been analyzed by using Francis' theory, the writer concludes that the most utterances used by Romeo the main characters of the "Romeo and Juliet" movie contain formal style, casual style, consultative style, intimate style. However, casual style is mostly found in this field analysis.

There are four of related studies who conducted a research on the same topic about language style. The first, the study by Robianto (2006) titled "Language styles based on the sentence structure and meaning of Anthony's Oration in Shakespeare's Julius Caesar". She uses some theories of sentence structure, meaning, figurative language, oration, rhetorical figure, and topic in order to make the analyzing easier. Then, she finds that the most frequent style which used is formal style. The second, the study by Sulis Mas'udah (2008) titled "Language Styles used in Titanic Film". She finds the use of speech style formal, informal and colloquial style can be friendly impression in the speech because the most dominant speech style most used by the main actors is formal language style. The third, the study by Pratiwi (2009) titled "Language Style in Riri Riza's Movie Gie". She analyzes the influences of domain and social background in determining the variety of language styles. Then she finds that the most frequent style which used is casual style that influence with domains. And the last, the study by Hosen (2010) titled "Language Style used in the Oprah Winfrey Show". He analyzes fifth types of Speech Style: Formal Style, Informal Style, Humor Style, Ironic Style and Serious Style. The language style, which is most used is informal style.

In the statement above of previous research, the researcher finds the similarities and differences of language style. The similarity is discussion on language style. The difference is used Francis theory and mostly in analysis used formal styles in movie but depending on the movie story.

5.2 Suggestion

The writer wants to give some suggestions for future researchers on language style. First, the next researcher should investigate the language style on other kinds of form, such as horror, adventure, comedy and other. Those provide many different situations and topics. The future researchers can analyze the data based on condition of the language style in the story. Second, the writer suggests that the future studies to elaborate kinds of language style from this study. Thirdly, the writer hopes that the readers know about the different of language style in the movie and other genre. This study also helps people to understand language styles that are usually seen in society and media. To conclude, the writer hopes that this study can give some contributions to further researchers and studies of language style.
