

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

From the result of data analysis, it is found that Bob and Jimmy are main character because they appears on the whole story from begin until the end of story. There is contrast character between Bob and Jimmy in early part of story, As friends, they are described as does not rich and jobless, Bob described as boy has great ambition and obsession to becomes wealthy. Meanwhile, Jimmy described as boy has loyal with New York as his town and does not have any obsession to becomes wealth.

Through Sigmund Freud's id, ego and superego it will reveal about Jimmy's act by using other hands to arrest Bob. Firstly, his id is marked when Jimmy comes in promising wants to arrest Bob as criminal to shows his desire for his loyalty as policeman in New York. Jimmy's ego is appeared by his pretension to show his desire of power and loyalty in New York with obligation as policeman to arrest Bob. As policeman, he has to decides arrest Bob as criminal, in his opinion that is way to maintain his id. Whereas, Bob is his friends and loyal with him even he is a criminal because he still waits Jimmy in their promise. So, Jimmy takes away to get other policeman to arrest Bob. Moreover, Jimmy writes notes to Bob to show that he comes in promising through other policeman. The third is superego, Jimmy still hold his friendship with Bob. So, he does not bring himself to arrest Bob as close friends by himself and get other officer to arrest Bob in order to avoid making hurt to Bob as his friends.
