ABSTRACT

Utama, F. (2023). Expressive Speech Acts of the Main Characters in the Movie Charlotte's Web (2006). English Literature Department, Faculty of Adab and Humanities, UIN Sunan Ampel Surabaya. Advisors: (I) Endratno Pili Swasono, M.Pd. (II) Tristy Kartika Fi'aunillah, M.A.

The study aims to identify the expressive speech acts in conversation. The writer conducts research on expressive speech acts in the movie Charlotte's Web (2006). This movie is an American movie released in 2006, this movie tells a little girl who has a pet (pig) named Wilbur and the phenomenon of expressive speech acts occurs in the movie. That's why in this study the writer answers the research questions, namely: (1) What are the expressive acts expressed by the main characters in the movie Charlotte's Web (2006)? (2) What are the functions of the expressive act by the main characters in the movie Charlotte's Web (2006)?

This study uses a descriptive qualitative approach to obtain clear and systematic descriptions of the phenomena studied. Descriptive study in textual analysis is applied in this study to analyze the conversations of the main characters in the movie script. Data is collected by downloading the movie transcript. Then, the movie transcript is analyzed by identifying the types of expressive speech acts using the speech act theory by Searle and Vanderveken.

The results of the study show that the expressive speech acts found are speech acts of complaining, speech act of lamenting, speech acts of protesting, speech act of deploring, speech acts of complimenting, speech acts of praising, and speech act of greeting. The writer found that out of all the existing expressive speech acts, the speech act of complaining is used the most. Fern's father named John often uses the speech act of complaining, this is because he often complains about Fern's pig, which has been around the house for a long time, which Fern has cared for from baby until grown bigger.

Keywords: expressive speech acts, the functions of expressive act

ABSTRAK

Utama, F. 2023. Tindak Tutur Ekspresif pada Karakter-Karakter Utama di Film Charlotte's Web (2006). Program Studi Sastra Inggris, Fakultas Adab dan Humaniora, UIN Sunan Ampel Surabaya, Pembimbing: (I) Endratno Pilih Swasono, M.Pd. (II) Tristy Kartika Fi'aunillah, M.A.

Penelitian bertujuan untuk mengidentifikasi tindak tutur ekspresif dalam percakapan, penulis melakukan penelitian tentang tindak tutur ekspresif yang terdapat dalam film Charlotte's Web (2006). Film ini merupakan sebuah film Amerika Serikat yang dirilis pada tahun 2006, film ini menceritakan seorang gadis kecil yang memiliki hewan peliharaan babi yang bernama Wilbur dan fenomena tindak tutur ekspresif terjadi di film ini. Karena itulah dalam studi ini penulis menjawab rumusan masalah dalam penelitian ini yaitu (1) tindak tutur ekspresif apa sajakah yang diungkapkan oleh karakter-karakter utama di film Charlotte's Web (2006)? (2) fungsi-fungsi tindak tutur ekspresif apa sajakah yang diungkapkan oleh karakter-karakter utama di film Charlotte's Web (2006)?

Penelitian ini menggunakan pendekatan deskriptif kualitatif untuk mendapat deskripsi yang jelas dan sistematis tentang fenomena yang dipelajari. Studi deskriptif dalam analisis tekstual diterapkan dalam penelitian ini untuk menganalisis percakapan karakter-karakter utama dalam naskah film. Data dikumpulkan dengan mengunduh film transcript. Film transcript kemudian dianalisis dengan mengidentifikasi jenis-jenis tindak tutur ekspresif dengan menggunakan teori tindak tutur oleh Searle dan Vanderveken.

Hasil studi menunjukkan bahwa tindak tutur ekspresif yang ditemukan yaitu tindak tutur complaining (mengeluh), tindak tutur lamenting (meratapi), tindak tutur protesting (memprotes), tindak tutur deploring (menyesalkan), tindak tutur complimenting (memuji), tindak tutur praising (memuji), dan tindak tutur greeting (menyapa). Penulis menemukan bahwa dari keseluruhan tindak tutur ekspresif yang ada, yang paling sering digunakan yaitu tindak tutur complaining. Ayahnya Fern yang bernama John sering menggunakan tindak tutur complaining, hal ini dikarenakan Ayahnya Fern sering mengeluhkan hewan babi peliharaannya Fern yang sudah lama berada di sekitar rumah, yang mana hewan itu dari kecil hingga tumbuh besar dirawat oleh Fern.

Kata Kunci: tindak tutur ekspresif, fungsi-fungsi tindak tutur ekspresif

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

This chapter presents background of study, problems of the study, objectives of the study, significance of the study, scope and delimitations and definitions of key terms.

1.1 Background of Study

Language is very important because language is a communication tool that can be used in everyday life. Language cannot be separated in everyday use. Humans always use language, because language is a basic human need to interact with each other. If people don't use the language for the purpose of communication, it causes other people not to understand what that person means. Nurhayati (2016) argued that language functions to create meaningful communication between humans. This shows how important communication between humans is. The occurrence of good communication can create a good relationship if the speaker and the hearer speak good words.

The utterances that a person uses in communicating sometimes have hidden meanings, this makes a person try to understand the meaning contained in these utterances. One must understand the meaning of an utterance based on the context of when and where it happened. This makes the hearer interpret what the speaker meant in expressing what he/she said. The use of language not only provides understanding but also explains the nature of the human being himself. Chomsky (1965) and Nurhayati et al. (2018) argued that all languages have the same basic characteristics. This explains that the use of speech in a language is not as simple as its meaning, this focuses on the context. The study of how language can be used to communicate with each other is Pragmatics.

Pragmatics is a linguistic study related to considerations based on a context, this is included in the scope of language studies (Yule, 1996). In the field of pragmatics, it focuses on the speaker's meaning and the real meaning of a context. The speaker's utterance focuses on what the speaker means rather than the meaning of a word itself. In linguistic studies, speech acts relate to what people do with the words spoken.

Searle (1969) and Nurhayati (2014) argued that speech acts are the basic unit of communication in the field of linguistic studies. According to Austin (1960) speech act is a philosophical language that has a goal in maintaining one of the main functions of language in terms of carrying out important social actions. Austin (1960) shared his thoughts on the two main different verbs, namely "constative and performative". In a constative context regarding the use of verbs that function to express the occurrence of things that are right or wrong. Performative verbs function to describe the actions performed.

Austin (1976) classifies actions in speech into 3 types. Locutionary act has a relationship with the grammatical principles used by the speaker, while illocutionary act is an action taken with the aim of making an utterance occur. Performative verbs are used by the speakers to convey intent in a sentence, while perlocutionary act is the result of an effect through locutionary act and illocutionary act.

Searle (1976) as quoted in Renkema and Schubert (2018) classifies 5 types of illocutionary acts and their use in terms of communication. The first is a representative speech act, which is a type of speech act that gives the speaker believes is true or false. Then directive speech acts which are used by the speaker to order someone to be willing to do something. Commissive speech acts are speech acts that function so that someone has a commitment regarding actions to be taken in the future. Then, expressive speech acts that describe the speaker's feeling, and declarative speech acts are types of speech acts that can influence direct changes that occur in some current circumstances.

Based on the different types of illocutionary acts, expressive speech acts are speech acts that are often used in everyday conversation. This explains the feelings and emotions felt by the speaker. Speech in an expressive context functions to give meaning to the feelings felt by the speaker, this can happen if it is done by the speaker or listener. Yule (1996) argues that there are various feelings in expressive acts, namely a pleasure, pain, likes, dislikes, or sorrow. This makes the researcher willing to do a research study on expressive speech act in the movie Charlotte's Web (2006).

The reason the researcher chooses the movie to be used as Data source is because this movie has an interesting and moving story. This movie is really worth watching. Petrie & Boggs (2018) argue that movie is a story which is acted out with images that move, a stream of images and sounds that over time change to shimmer with brightness and vitality that unite into one of movement, vibration, illustration that is possessed by feelings of anxiety to live life passionately away from silence and static. Movies have several genres such as: comedy, adventure, science-fiction, action, drama, horror, fantasy, romance, and others.

The researcher chooses a comedy movie as the object of study with the title Charlotte's Web (2006). Charlotte's Web is a 2006 comedy-drama movie originating from the United States, this movie is based on a children's novel in 1952 through the work of E.B. White. Gary Winick directed Charlotte's Web, the movie is the second movie of White's book's adaptation. This story tells of a girl who has a little pig named Wilbur and takes care of him until he grows up. Wilbur has many friends in the animal barn. This movie has a very deep meaning of friendship, this movie is very good to watch for those who like to watch comedy-drama. This movie is recommended. This is also supported by the main characters in expressive speech when they are in dialogue. This reason makes the researcher chooses this movie script to be used as research.

Then, the researcher will analyze illocutionary speech acts, especially in expressive speech acts in the movie script Charlotte's Web (2006). Before carrying out the research, the researcher has read several previous studies related to this research. The previous studies help the researcher to be able to conduct research in analyzing expressive speech acts in the movie script Charlotte's Web (2006).

The first research is entitled An Analysis of Expressive Speech Act in Legend of the Guardians: The Owls of Ga'hoole Movie by Kathryn Lansky by Aulia A. Tisnawati (2018). Aulia's research focused to analyze the expressive actions used by the characters regarding the fragments of the characters' conversations. In Aulia's research, there are 6 kinds of expressive speech acts in the movie used by the characters, namely pleasure, pain, likes, dislike, joy, and sorrow. In total, there are 214 utterances which include expressive speech acts. Aulia explained her data into a quantitative research design because her goal was to find the frequency of expressive speech acts that occur in movie. What the researcher did after conducting data analysis, the researcher determined the form of the percentage of data by means of statistical analysis.

The next research is by Rani Violeta with the title Speech Acts Analysis of the Main Character in Maleficent Movie Script by Jane McTee (2019). Rani has conducted an analysis of the speech acts used in the Maleficent movie script. In her research, speech acts that are often used in the movie are illocutionary acts, for example: representative, directives, commissives, expressive and declarative. The conclusions of speech acts in her research are to express things that belong to a certain group, to indicate or express hospitality, to indicate disappointment, to indicate someone who is out of hand, to reduce seriousness in the context of speaking, to persuade someone, and to indicate pleasure's feeling or just for fun.

The next research is by Masruroh with the title An Analysis of Expressive Speech Acts of Main Character in Dismissed Movie (2022). This movie is included in the independent thriller movie in 2017, Benjamin Arfman is the director of this movie. This movie has the theme of a student who really wants to get an A score. This study aims to identify the types of expressive speech acts played by the main character in the Dismissed Movie and to find out the types of expressive speech acts that often appear used by the main character in the Dismissed Movie. Descriptive qualitative research used in research methods. This study focuses on expressive speech acts uttered by Lucas Ward as the main character in the Dismissed Movie and focuses on 6 kinds of expressive speech acts: thanking expressions, apologizing expressions, congratulating expressions, greeting expressions, wishing expressions, and attitude expressions. Data collection was carried out by the researcher using the Dismissed movie script. The results found in this study are 5 kinds of expressive speech acts used by Lucas Ward in the Dismissed Movie and there are 21 utterances, namely 6 thanking expressions, 2 apologizing expressions, 2 greeting expressions, 6 wishing expressions and 5 attitudes expressions. The most common speech acts used by the main character (Lucas Ward) in the Dismissed movie are expressive speech acts of thanking and wishing. It means that Lucas Ward in the Dismissed movie uses expressions of thanking and wishes.

The next research is by Evrin Septya Lilasa Siagian, Sarwiji Suwandi and Andayani with the title Speech Acts and Functions of Expressive Speech Act of Polish BIPA Learners at UPT Bahasa UNS (2018). This study is to explain the use of speech acts in the context of locutionary acts, illocutionary acts, perlocutionary acts, and expressive speech acts used by foreign learners of process learning Indonesian Language for Foreigners (BIPA). Descriptive qualitative as the method of this research. Free listening-participating-speaking (SBLC) was used as the technique of collecting data. The interactive model was used as the technique of

1.6 Definition of the Key Terms

The researcher writes down the keywords in order to support this research. By understanding the definition of keywords, this is to make it easier for readers and other researchers to understand.

1. Speech acts: an expression that is viewed as an action, especially in terms of aim, goal, or outcome.
2. Expressive Speech Act: Expressive is a speech act that explains the feelings felt by the speaker.
3. Movies: a story that is acted out with moving images, a stream of images and sounds that over time change to shimmer with brightness and vitality that unite into one of movement, vibration, illustration that is possessed by feelings and anxiety to live life passionately away from silence and static (Petrie & Boggs, 2018).
4. Charlotte's Web (2006): Charlotte's Web is a 2006 comedy-drama movie originating from the United States, this movie is based on a children's novel in 1952 through the work of E.B. White.

CHAPTER II

REVIEW OF LITERATURE

In the discussion of this chapter discusses theories about Speech Acts and Expressive Speech Acts in order to support the background and theoretical framework of the research. The expressions included in the Expressive Speech Act in Charlotte's Movie (2006) are taken by the writer in order to be able to conduct research.

2.1 Speech Acts

Speech act theory discusses the meaning of language and how to use language in order to complete an action. When someone tries to understand the theory of speech acts, that person will be able to understand the grammatical and implied meanings uttered by the speaker and the listener must also try to understand the speaker's words. According to Austin (1962), speech acts are actions taken after the speaker says something to the listener. This means that speech act theory explains in detail the linguistic meaning used. Austin (1962) also classifies words into 2, namely constative and performative categories. Constative utterances explain circumstances and truths that are accurate according to the listener's knowledge, while performative utterances are actions driven by an utterance.

Furthermore, Austin (1962) argues that each utterance can mean one or several speech acts, this can be analyzed in 3 ways, namely:

- a. Locutionary acts are acts of saying something (Birner, 2013). The locutionary act itself is a form of speech, the actual words are uttered by the speaker, and this refers to the literal meaning of what is conveyed.
- b. Illocutionary acts are acts of doing something (Birner, 2013). In speech act theory, the use of illocutionary speech act sentences functions to express an action with a certain function or "power", this is an illocutionary force. Illocutionary speech acts have to do with who speaks to whom, where, when the speech act occurs.

The next morning, Fern tucks Wilbur inside her school desk, this causes a scene and Fern lies to her teacher about keeping her pig on her desk. Her teacher compels Fern to open her desk and this makes her classmates laugh, this causes Fern to be called to the principal's office as a punishment where Fern's mother (Mrs. Arable) is called to pick Fern up from school.

When Wilbur became an adult, Fern felt sorry and was compelled to bring Wilbur to her uncle's barn, Homer Zuckerman. Mrs. Arable was worried about Fern's condition. One night, when Fern wanted to go to the barn, his mother told him to stay at home, ordered him to do housework, and immediately sent him to sleep.

During this time, Wilbur felt abandoned and missed Fern, but was reviled by the other animals in the barn. There is a steadfast and serious lamb named Samuel, a friendly and playful swan couple named Gussy and Golly, there are two gorgeous cows named Bisby and Betsy, and a cute horse named Ike, and Wilbur becomes friends with Charlotte A. Cavatica who is a spider living in the room above Wilbur in Zuckerman's barn.

CHAPTER III

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

This chapter consists of 7 parts, they are: Research Design, Data Collection, Research Data, Data Source and Subjects of the Study, Instrument, Data Collection, Data Analysis.

3.1 Research Design

Research design is an instrument for conducting research in terms of showing that all the main things in research are intended to work together. Research design has meaning in setting the conditions for collecting and analyzing data in order to incorporate purposeful relevance in terms of research. This chapter serves to explain the things that must be done in this research.

According to Punch (1998), he stated that qualitative research does not use numerical data. He also stated that the research question and method are more general at the start and become more focused as the study progresses. The researcher used descriptive qualitative research in conducting research. In this research, the researcher analyzed and presented data regarding expressive speech acts from the movie Charlotte's Web (2006).

3.2 Data Collection

Data collection is the procedure of collecting and analyzing for research using standart validated techniques.

3.2.1 Research Data

The data of this study are in the form of words, phrases, and sentences obtained through the utterances of Fern and Fern's father (John) from the movie of Charlotte's Web (2006) which contain expressive speech acts during conversations that occurred in the movie of Charlotte's Web (2006). The expressive speech act that occurred was based on that place when Fern and Fern's father were on her father's farm, at home, and at the animal competition. In every scene where the researcher mentioned, there were expressive speech acts.

3.2.2 Data Source

The data source for this study is the movie Charlotte's Web, an American movie released in 2006. Gary Winick directed this movie. This movie was the second movie adaptation of the book by White, the previous movie being the 1973 version of the animated movie produced by Hanna-Barbera, and distributed by Paramount Pictures.

Because the data are in the form of words, phrases and sentences spoken by Fern and Fern's father (John), this study focused on these two main characters, the conversations that occurred between Fern and Fern's father (John) contained expressive speech acts. The researcher chose Fern and Fern's father as the focus of the research because of the interaction between a daughter and a parent, this made the researcher chose the two main characters as the focus of the research.

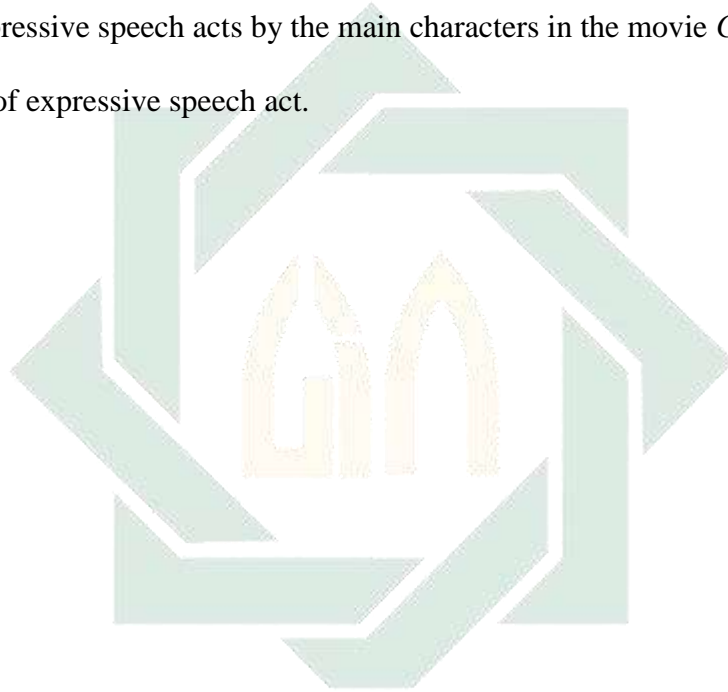

3.2.3 Instrument(s)

The research instrument used is the human instrument, namely the researcher himself. Stewart (2010) stated that the instrument of qualitative research is the researcher itself because the researcher does review the phenomenon and the researcher has to face the challenges to obtain the goal. In order to find the data in this study, the researcher often watched Charlotte's Web (2006) movie using laptop and cellphone. The researcher also highlighted the utterances in the movie transcript.

answer the first question, then the researcher identified the functions of the expressive act by the main characters in the movie Charlotte's Web to answer the second question.

4. Drawing Conclusion

The last step was the researcher discussed the result of the data in a paragraph and presented the conclusion of study based on the result of the study. The researcher concluded the result of data of expressive speech acts by the main characters in the movie Charlotte's Web and the functions of expressive speech act.

Fern's Father (John) who often complains to Fern because she raises a pig. There is a time when Fern's father (John) is proud of Fern when her pig named Wilbur, wins a competition. This film describes Fern, who raises Wilbur until he grows up, and this movie also describes Wilbur, who has many friends on Homer Zuckerman's barn.

From previous studies of this research, Aulia A. Tisnawati (2018) in her research there were six kinds of expressive speech acts totaling 214 utterances. The focus of her research is on the percentage of each type of expressive speech act. Aulia's goal in using the research design is to find out the percentage. Aulia explains her data by means of a simple statistical analysis and ends with column art. Reference analysis used by the researcher is the theory of George Yule. Meanwhile, Rani Violeta (2019) conducted an analysis of illocutionary acts in her research. Rani took theory from Searle in analyzing the five types of illocutionary. Then, Masruroh (2022), his research focuses on expressive speech acts uttered by the main character named Lucas Ward and focuses on 6 types of expressive speech acts. The results found in his research are 5 kinds of expressive speech acts used by the main character and there are 21 utterances.

Then, the next research is by Evrin Septya Lilasa Siagian, Sarwiji Suwandi and Andayani (2018), their research is about the use of speech acts in the context of locutionary acts, illocutionary acts, perlocutionary acts, and expressive speech acts used by foreign learners of process learning Indonesian Language for Foreigners (BIPA). The results indicated that there were types of locutionary acts, perlocutionary acts, and functions of expressive speech acts, those are; congratulating, gratitude expressions, criticizing, complaining, giving compliment, apologizing, offering and motivating.

And the last, the next research is by Selviyani and Tri Pujiati (2019) about describing the forms and function of expressive utterances in the dialogue The Perfect Husband by Indah Riyana by using qualitative descriptive method. According to data analysis, it is found that literal direct forms is 40 data (83,3%), the literal indirect form is 2 data (4,17%), the illiteral direct forms 4 data (8,3%), and the illiteral indirect form is 2 data (4,17%). The function of expressive speech act; thanks is 2 data (4,1%), asking for apology is 13 data (27,08%), praising is 5 data (10,41%), blaming is 9 data (18,75%), criticizing is 4 data (8,4%), quipping is 11 data (22,91%), and complaining is 4 data (8,4%).

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

In the previous chapter talks about analyzing data, the writer presents conclusion and suggestion which are the last part of the research. Writing about conclusion and suggestion in order to provide information to the researchers for those who want to research illocutionary acts especially expressive speech acts.

5.1 Conclusion

The conclusion that can be drawn from this study is that there are thirteen data of expressive speech acts by the main characters in the movie Charlotte's Web (2006) and their thirteen functions of expressive speech act. The expression of lamenting appeared once, the expression of protesting appeared twice, the expression of deploring appeared once, the expression of complimenting appeared twice, the expression of praising appeared twice, the expression of greeting appeared once, the expression of complaining appeared four times in this study. The writer concludes that the expressive speech act that often appears is the expression of complaining. Expression of complaining is the most prominent expressive act used by the main characters.

5.2 Suggestion

The researcher would like to convey advice to students, especially students of the Department of English Literature at Sunan Ampel University Surabaya (UINSA) Surabaya. Expressive speech acts are included in Illocutionary Acts, this is crucial to learn so that the researcher can know the intent and meaning of the speaker's speech. By understanding the types of expressive speech acts through the theory of Searle (1969) and Yule's theory (1996), this makes it easier for the readers so that they can understand the intent of the speaker.

For the future researchers who want to do an analysis of illocutionary acts, especially expressive speech acts regarding utterances in the movie, the researcher suggests watching the movie and understanding the transcript script to make it easier to analyze and understand the utterances played by the characters. The researcher hopes that there will be the further researchers who analyze the expressive speech acts in the movie.
