

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION

5.1. Conclusion

Language is the one of important thing to communicate with other individual. In having knowledge of language, human should undergo the language acquisition process in their life. Each people might have different process in different condition. In this case, human with normal hearing and vision has different way to acquire language than human with hearing impairment and vision loss.

In the research analysis, writer found some ways which used to aid Michele McNally in language acquisition process. First is tactile sign language that found when Debraj Sahai uses to exhibit the sign of thing to Michele. Second, tactile finger spelling which is used to train Michele in naming the objects that she detected. In introducing the new thing or word, sahai taught Michele through finger spelling that traced on Michele's palm. Third is tadoma, it is one of method which is found by an American teacher, Shopia Kindrick Alcorn. Implementation of tadoma in the movie happens when Michele is taught to read the lips movement of Sahai by uttering the word. Fourth is the use of nonverbal communication through smelling feature. In addition it is also useful when Sahai introduces the object through its scent. Fifth is kinesic or gesturing that is practiced by Michele is used for indicating the language knowledge which is completed by Michele at the section.

Furthermore, writer found the steps of language acquisition which passed by Michele based on Black movie. Those phases are manual babbling, pointing to object, first word or sign production, naming an object.

5.2. Suggestion

The writer suggests for the next researcher can conduct research based on the same object but analyze that with different themes or other theories. By using other theme and theory, hopefully next researcher can enrich more in about language acquisition study.
